A bid for the “struck-off amount” can be approved by the city and will not need the approval of the county and school. A bid for less than the struck-off amount will also need to be approved by the school and county. The struck-off amount was the minimum bid at the initial tax sale—and was either the adjudged market value or the amount of taxes and court costs (including attorney ad litem and publication fees) due at the time of the sale, whichever was less.
